An introduction to Opus Safety

Opus offers decades of health and safety knowledge with a difference.

They provide honest, straightforward bespoke compliance services that put your goals and budget first – without long-term contracts, call centres or upselling.

Instead, you work with safety managers and ex-enforcement officers to exceed your legal requirements and put compliance at the core of your culture.

In a world where health and safety regulations often feel restrictive, Opus prioritise genuine customer relationships and realistic compliance solutions that work for you.

Opus recognises that each business has different compliance challenges and allows you to shape your ideal safety solution from a variety of options.

Our partnership

When it comes to health and safety compliance, consistency is crucial. However, keeping up with evolving regulations across the industry simply isn't easy.

But this BMF Safety Partnership can help you ensure you're ahead of the game.

To help you protect your business with commercially focused health and safety support and prevent you from falling behind, BMF has teamed up with experienced sector specialists, Opus Safety.

This BMF Safety Partnership removes the complexities of compliance tasks, letting you focus on your site.

Available only to BMF members, the service combines risk analysis with ongoing training, support and software that simplifies safety processes across your business.

The partnership includes:

INITIAL GAP ANALYSIS

Reviewing your current health and safety programme and identifying risk areas.

BESPOKE POLICIES

Tailored policies, risk assessments and handbooks, written by a compliance expert.

COMPANY-WIDE PROGRAMMES

To head off compliance breaches and legal action.

PRE- AND POST-INCIDENT SUPPORT

Accident prevention plans and post-incident support, including RIDDOR reporting.

TAILORED TRAINING

Staff training, e-learning courses and quizzes, designed for you.

REDUCED RATES

Save money on audits, assessments and Opus's core safety consultancy service.

What our members say

A partner who will go the extra mile

“The Opus team use their considerable expertise, built over nearly 20 years working in the merchanting sector, to offer commercially sensible advice.

We like that Opus forms partnerships with its customers. They can be relied upon to respond quickly and proactively.

Their consultants provide all the latest information we need regarding safety. With Opus, we have a partner who will support us and go the extra mile.”

Steve Vincent, Commercial Manager and Neil Robinson, Financial Director, Inter-Line Building Supplies Ltd.

An effective consultant who understands our sector

“When I was looking for a health and safety partner, the market was full of multi-discipline providers. I was searching for a specialist offering excellence in health and safety management.

In Opus, we have found an effective consultant who understands our sector and company.

It has been a turbulent time managing our health and safety, but I’m confident we’ll get there with Opus.”

Paul McCafferty, Head of Operations, Thistle Timber & Building Supplies
